Dear students of the New University,

you are cordially invited to a round table discussion about the Russian-Ukrainian war in the perspective of Slovenia and Hungary.

The event is about the aggression that shocked the international community but with a little twist. The focus of this discussion will be on the Slovenian and Hungarian perspective represented by security study experts from both countries.

The program will cover topics like recent military developments, the condition of the armies, relationships with the fighting parties but also the NATO and EU.

At the end of the event there will be an opportunity for questions from the audience.
